M. J. Tuck, employed at the Virginia Lumber and box Factory, in the western part of the city, was almost instantly killed about noon to-day. He was employed as a saw filer, and was recorded as a very valuable man at regarded as a very valuable man at his work. Welle on duty he stumbled and fell on a large, rapidly revolving saw, and his body was literally cut in two, death, of course, quickly re-

Dr. Leigh, the Coroner, viewed the body, but deemed an inquest unneces-sary, death having been caused by accident.

The resignation of the Rev. Robert W. Barnwell as rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church was tendered to the vestry last night, and accepted for reasons urged by Mr. Barnwell, was heard to-day with unfeigned surprise and regret, not only by the congrega-tion to whom he has so acceptably ministered, but by the community at large. Mr. Barnwell has been rector of St. Paul's for nearly five years, and as an able and elequent divine, and as a good pastor and man of culture and of genial manners, endeared himself to the people.

His resignation is to take effect on December 1, but the vestry will endeavor to urge him to remain until January. It is understood that Mr Barnwell resigns to return to his native State, South Carolina, where he has property interests, and there, for a while, continue his studies and his literary work.

Not Low in Virginia Cities Because of Colored Population.

Were it not for the fact that Virginis cities comprise such a large proportion of nestro population it is believed they would stand as well in point-ery mortality rate as any in the United States. No surprise is therefore manifested over the fact that no city in the State is included among those whose death rate is lowest.

When all the vital statistics, based on the new census are published, it is expected by the State Health Department that the Virginia cities will measure up with any in the South with reterence to death among the white population.

Susan F. Rollieler Seeks to Recover S15,000 in Damages.
Suit was entered in the City Circuit Court yesterday by Susan F. Rohleder against the Virginia Raliway and Power Company for damages in the sum of $15,000. The suit grows out of damages alleged to have been received by the plainting at the hands of the defendant company.

In the same court Estelle G. Lumkin entered suit against T. W. Duke for $50.20, alleging that the defendant agreed to have certain repairs made to an automobile sold the plainting, which have not been made.
